"Well," said the major, with a retrospective smile, "you see I was stationed at Fort Laramie at the time, and was lips as from a smoldering volcano, and sent with a detachment of twenty-five men to escort Gen. Whipple, who was drifted down to leeward, mingling with similar clouds discharged from the visiting the fort, and his staff to another post about 4,000 miles further The captain of the boat came aft and north. The country was full of Indians on the war-path, but we didn't mind stood at the edge of the hurricane deck. and looked on with manifest apprehenthem so much as the weather, which sion. The deck hands stood uneasily was simply fearful. Snow breast high and a steady norther blowing that around in safe corners, and furtively would cut the eyes out of you. And still the big 188 man smoked on. All hands breathed a few miles further on a certain log easier when the boat backed into her and stockade that we had been aiming for. Of course that braced us up once berth at Tompkinsville, and the big more, and we soon reached the house man arose to go ashore. When the and started up a roaring fire you may suppose. As the men were bringing in their last armfuls of wood they heard a faint call for help on the wind. A

"The log house had a small room in one corner, and we gave that to the If I could paint the lady of my dreams; poor family, and made them comfortable. That night it blew a gale, and the wind swept the trail so clear that the emigrants decided to push on south. I'd take the blackness of a starless night Our party concluded to wait another day for the weather to settle, and well enough it was, as the snow began again. Some time during the next evening one of the officers happened to go into the room that had been occupied by the emigrant family, when he heard a sort of low cry, and, going toward a bunk, saw something move inside a bundle lying there wrapped up

"A blue shawl, major," interrupted the young lady, merrily. "So it was," said the old officer, glancing fondly at his companion. "He was a brave fellow, that lieutenant; but | trace;
Yet, in that someday, meeting face to face,
I may learn then it is not half so rare. he ran out to us as pale as death. "Gentlemen," said he, 'in the excitement of getting away, those people have left their baby. "

"You never saw such a seared lot of men in your life. There we were, snowed in, 300 miles from civilization, with a baby. A grizzly bear would have been more welcome." "Oh, you horrid thing!" sniffed the mother on the back seat.

"You don't seem to grapple with the proposition, ma'am," explained the major. "On canvassing the matter we found that there wasn't but one married man in the whole command, and he, as luck would have it, had never had a baby. We didn't have any more idea how to take care of a baby than the man in the moon. Oh! it was dreadful!" and the major wiped the perspiration from the face at the mere

"Had the poor darling been all that day without anything to eat?" indignantly inquired a young bride who sat up with the driver. "To drink, you mean," said the major. "That was just it. There wasn't even a can of condensed milk in the outfit, so we went into a council of war as to the proper thing to give it to est. One officer said flour and water was the correct thing. Capt. Brown insisted on milk. Boggs thought that mest chopped up fine would answer. Somebody else argued that the proper ration for a baby was sugar tied up in a rag somehow. A young ensign be-lieved they sucked the juice of a piece of rubber, so to speak, while old Wl.ipple stuck it out that babies were fed exclusively on paregoric. You never heard such a wrangle.' "And the poor little creature suffering all that time," murmured the mother, wiping a tear off her nose. "! he result was that we agreed to make an impartial mixture of all these things, on the theory that if one missed fire the other would sort of counteract it, as it were. So we made a sort of stew in the coffee-pot, which included a whole bottle of paregoric from the medicine chest, for most of us rather leaned toward Whipple's ideas after all. Then we hunted up a small tin funnel used for filling the whisky keg." "What was that for?" gasped the

"I wonder it didn't kill you," interrupted the bride, looking knowingly at the major's companion. "Of course, I can see how it all turned out. You were the baby, and the major brought you up and married you.' "Just wait till I finish," went on the

"Just as we started for the bunk there was a terrible crash of tiring, followed by a yell that would have curdled your blood. We were attacked by the 'Paches. They had surrounded us on snowshoes. Of course we had to jump to our guns, and it was just nip and tuck all that night to keep them off. At daylight our repeating rifles were too much for them, and they finally cleared out with a heavy loss." "And the baby?" eried the whole stage, while even the driver put on the brake and turned around to listen. "Then we thought of the baby," said the major, solemaly, "and we all went to look at it. The bundle still lay on the bunk, and it was motionless. The shawl was stained with blood, and we saw that a chance arrow had come those that can see is the same. A great number of blind people have lost the use of their eyes before they were three years old. When they grow up they develop characteristics that one might suppose would only come from the abilto see and compare. The little blind girls, who have not much recollection of what things in the world look like, get somewhere or other a love of dress, and they display all the vanity of the every-day child, who can see and admire itself in the lookingglass. They learn to know what colors suit them, and insist on being at their best. You will, perhaps, think it strange that they who cannot see appreciate the existence in others of sight which, to them, must be inexplicable and inconceivable, but it is so, and I cannot pretend to account for it. You would think that on their appearance in a public place they would imperfeetly realize that other people could know what they were doing without touching them. Yet when our pupils give exhibitions of calisthenics and gymnastics they display before going lady passengers, who by this time had pefore the spectators every symptom of stage-fright. It is a mistake to suppose that nature compensates for blindness by making the other senses more acute. There is a superstition that a blind man can attain a nicer sense of hearing and of touch than a man who is blessed with the use of his eyes. There have been many pretty things said about the beneficence of a system that divided the energy that belonged to a lost sense among the senses that remained. It is

HAIR RENEWER was the first preparation perfectly adapted to cure diseases of the scalp, and the first successful restorer of faded or gray hair to its natural color, growth, and youthful beauty. It has had many imitators, but none have so fully met all the requirements needful for the proper treatment of the hair and scalp. HALL'S HAIR RENEWER has steadily grown in favor, and spread its fame and usefulness to every quarter of the globe. Its unparalleled success can be attributed to but one cause: the entire fulfilment of its promises. The proprietors have often been surprised at the receipt of orders from remote countries, where they had never made an effort fo The use for a short time of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER wonderfully improves the personal appearance. It cleanses the scalp from all impurities, cures all humors, fever, and dryness, and thus prevents baldness. It stimulates the weakened glands, and enables them to push forward a new and vigorous growth. The effects of this article are not transient, like those of alcoholic preparations, but remain a long time, which makes its use a matter of conomy. BUCKINGHAM'S DYE WHISKERS

Will change the beard to a natural brown, or black, as desired. It produces a permanent color that will not wash away. Consisting of a single preparation, it is applied without PREPARED BY R. P. HALL & CO., Nashra, N. H.

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs: none so trifled with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a tritling or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. Aven's CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and jung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay. A Terrible Cough Cured.

"In 1857 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed might after might without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried AYER'S CHERRY PES-TORAL, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the for the recovery of nay strength. continued use of the PECTORAL a perma-nent cure was effected. I am now 62 years old, bale and hearty, and am satisfied your CHERRY PECTORAL saved me. HORACE FAIRBROTHER."

Rockingham, Vt., July 15, 1882. Croup. - A Mother's Tribute.

While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangu-lation. One of the family suggested the use of Ayen's Cherry Pectoral, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and to our delight in less than half an hour the httle patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Cherry Pretoral had favel my daring's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude? Sincerely yours,

150 West 128th St., New York, May 16, 1882. "I have used AVER'S CHERRY PECTORAL in my family for several years, and do not hesitate to pronounce it the most effectual remedy for coughs and colds we have ever tried." Lake Crystal, Minn., March 15, 1882. "I suifered for eight years from Bronchit's, and after trying many remedies with no success, I was cured by the use of Avi n's CHER-Bybalia, Miss., April 5, 1882. JOSEPH WALDEN."

"I cannot say enough in praise of AVIR'S CHERRY PECTORAL, bedeving as I do the! but for its use I should leng since have dise from lung troubles I. BRAGDON." Palestine, Texas, April 22, 1882. No case of an affection of the throat or lungs exists which cannot be greatly relieved by the use of AVER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not already beyond the control of medicine.
